

Easy Marbled Valentine Cards

Supplies needed:

- Cardstock (for the card)
- White Cardstock or White Paper
- Shaving Cream (creamy)
- Ruler or something flat to scrape off the excess shaving cream
- Paper plate or tray for shaving cream
- Food Coloring
- Scissors
- toothpick/skewer
- Area to scrape off the shaving cream, trashbag, or outside somewhere that you can get messy. (I used paper towels underneath as I scraped the excess)
- Glue stick or school glue

1. Fill your tray/paper plate with shaving cream in a flat layer.
2. Add drops of food coloring of your choice on top of the shaving cream layer.

3. Using your toothpick/skewer swirl the food coloring until you like the way it looks.

4. Lay your white paper/cardstock on top of the shaving cream/food coloring mixture and press lightly making sure all of the paper has touched the shaving cream. Peel the paper off slowly.

5. Use the ruler to scrap off all of the excess shaving cream mixture when it is still wet. Once the shaving cream is scraped off let the paper dry completely.

6. Once your new swirly paper is dry cut it into heart shapes, or any other shapes you like.

7. Cut your colored cardstock into a rectangle to create a small card.

8. Glue the heart shape(s) to the card you created and write your Valentine's message inside.

9. I like to put a "handmade by Chelsie" note on the back of the card near the bottom.
